Richard T. Freilich is a seasoned litigator with over 20 years of experience handling complex civil matters, including subrogation, product liability, construction defects, and insurance coverage disputes. A graduate of New York Law School, Richard represents insurers, individuals, and businesses in matters ranging from small claims to multimillion-dollar losses.

Richard leads subrogation cases from the initial investigation through discovery, motion practice, trial, and appeal. His experience spans property damage, fire losses, commercial claims, and contract enforcement, with a proven ability to identify viable targets and recoveries even in challenging liability environments.

In addition to his subrogation work, Richard has extensive experience in personal injury litigation, commercial transactions, and commercial leasing. His background as a plaintiff's attorney gives him a practical, results-driven approach and a strong negotiation style focused on resolving cases efficiently and favorably for his clients.

Known for his tenacity and thoughtful strategy, Richard is committed to finding creative, cost-effective solutions to achieve the best possible outcomes.
